WESTMEATH HOUNDS STOPPED.

The meet of the Westmeath Hounds yesterday was at Killure, about nine miles from Mullingar, and there was a good-sized field to meet the Master, Mr. E. W. Hope-Johnstone, including a number of farmers. The hunt was, however, a chandoned, owing to the action of Sinn Feiners. So dar as particulars can be obtained at the Litme of writing, the Sinn Fein contingent headed a large crowd. The spokesmen informed Mr. Johnstone that the Sinn Feiners did not intend to allow the hunt to proceed that day, and the Master decided to take home aounds and glandont the meet. COUNCIL.

The Mullingar Rural District Council resolution, that all sport, especially hunting, be stopped until the political prisoners are released, having come before the Westmeath County Council meeting in Mullingar on Thursday, Mr. P. J. Weymes, J.F., proposed that it be marked "read," and Mr. William McDermott said that, whilst he was inclined to move its adoption, he thought the hunt might proceed if the Hunt, to Committee agreed to sign, and send a petition for the release of the prisoners. SPORTING PARAGRAPHS understood the prisoners were about to be re-leased, and they would all be very glad to learn that such was the case.

The meeting decided to mark the Mullingar R.D.C. resolution "read."

DEPRECIATION OF OTHER SECURITIES The fall of other securities cannot affect War Savings either directly or indirectly.

IN ANY FINANCIAL OR INDUSTRIAL CRISIS their security is beyond the reach of the calamities that overtake ordinary stocks or shares.

NO FLUCTUATIONS OF THE MARKET react upon War Savings, since they cannot be dealt in like other securities.

AGRICULTURAL CONDITIONS make no difference to War Savings. Whether the year is good or bad, they yield the same increase.

In War Savings your money cannot be lost; it cannot depreciate, either in capital value or earning power. On the contrary, it can and must increase, until in five years' time it reaches the maximum value. No other form of savings account is nearly so profitable as the 15/6 War Savings Certificate, which in five years is worth £1. Any number of Certificates up to 500 may be purchased, and money may be withdrawn at any time if desired, with interest to date after one year. For smaller amounts, 6d. War Savings Stamps are sold at every Post Office, where cards are supplied to which these Stamps may be affixed to the value of 15/6. When so completed the cards may be exchanged for War Savings Certificates.

Purchase of Oats

The Royal Commission on Wheat Supplies has arranged with the Department of Agriculture to purchase, for gradual delivery until the end of the season, a further 50,000 tons of feeding oats o sound merchantable quality.

This is in addition to the 60,000 tons already purch sed and shipped, and to the 20,000 to 30,000 tons purchased but not yet shipped. The further purchases, which it is estimated will exhaust the surplus and make a total season's export of about 140,000 tons, will, it is expected, commence about the end of February. Farmers are entitled to receive the published maximum prices, but in view of the shortage of shipping it is very desirable that they should market their stocks gradually. The maximum prices for grain during the months February to June, 1919, are clearly set forth in a leaflet to be obtained gratis and post free from the Secretary, Department of Agriculture, Upper Merrion Street, Dublin. Letters of application so addressed need not be stamped. Every farmer should obtain a copy of this leaflet and retain it

THE PLATE IN TRINITY COLLEGE.

The work before us affores another instance of the care bestowed by the Provost on his Alma Mater. Mr. Strickland's admirable catalogue of its pietures and statuary was drawn up at his instance, and now he has published, with an historical introduction and eleven Westropp's valuable inventory of the College plate, by far the finest collection of Irishfailver in existence. This store arose from the custom, borrowed from the English colleges, of bestowing argent at entrance; the father presented a piece of silver, in his son's name, for use at table. It is often forgotten that the Universities were in many respects the successors of the fixed was about 1,400 ounces.

Another disaster befel the collection 1686, when the Board sold the bulk of more than four pages are deveted to a li-of the donors, transcribed from a not book of the late Dr. Stubbs—copied, the book of the late Dr. Stubbs—copied, the Provost suspects, from a MS. of the learned Dr. Barrett, the one man who cherished the memorials of T.C.D. in the first quarter of the nine-teenth century. Stubbs was able to identify most of the donors, but he failed with regard to Stephen Glanly—doubtless intended for Stephen Stanley, a soff of Sir Thomas Stanley, of Grange Gorman, and the first Eton boy whose entrance is recorded (1675). With the return of settled Government under William of Orange, the Government under William of Orange, the College flourished, and gifts of plate began Government under William of Orange, the College flourished, and gifts of plate began anew, the practice continuing fill the first decade after the Union. Of these the best specimens belong the to the middle of George II.'s reign. Foremost among them is the beautiful silver-gilt depousse alms dish, with its exquisitely-chased background, the bequest of Claudius Gilbert, Vice-Provost.

No less than forty-four pages are occupied by Mr. Westropp's valuable catalogue, dealing with one hundred and four-teen items, many of which represent long sets of articles. After it had been compiled the Provost found that an Act of the Irish Parliament, passed in 1752, had made it penal both for dealer and private owner to sell plate, unless hall-marked, as evidence that the duty of suppende per och had been paid. This important discovery, unnoticed by Jackson in his standard work on hall-marks, opened up many possibilities. If the Act operated getrospectively, it were reasonable to suppose that owner of old, but unmarked, plate hurried off to get it stamped; but, if so, then hall-marks later than 1752 cannot be depended on the fix the year of manufacture. Startling as this theory must appear, it certainly seems to be corroborated by numerous omissiom of a date-letter in the hall-marks in this collection; and by the fact that in other cases an inscribed date is often as much as seventy years earlier than that indicated by the date-letter. There Royal Irish Academy, many of the points at issue have been swept away by the Provost's own researches, at the extent and variety of which many a younger man may marvel. With characteristic energy no only did he ransack the College Muni thents, finding important, but long-forgotten, lists of plate for 1750, 1751, and 1755 but he unearthed, and laboriously dephered, a MS. book of "Accounts wit Pupils" kept by John Griffith, a tutor "Charles II.'s time, and now preserved Marsh's Library. The lists of plate in posed a fresh task, for the weight of ever item being recorded, he was led to weig all the pieces in dispute.

But of the results of his industry it Provost has every reason to be proud.

STRIKE OF PROFESSIONAL MEN AND TRADERS.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent, telegraphing from Cologue yesterday, says:—
The war situation at Dusseldorf seems to-day to be rapidly approaching a critical stage. There can be no doubt that all but the lowest class of towagpeople have now grown hearily tired of their Spartacus rulers, and this morning news came through that all the more respectable professional men and tradeamen—the bourgeousie, in fact—had threatened a general strike unless they received satisfactory guarantees on certain points by noon. Some of us drove out to discover the tiruth of these rumours, and found the strike already in operation. Lawyers, doctors, bankers, hotel-keepers and shopkeepers had all closed their establishments. The points insisted upon by the strikers were, briefly, freedom of the Press and public meetings, free and unhindered voting to be held at the beginning of next month for a properly elected Town Conneil, to have control of affairs, and, above all, security for public and private property. It is difficult to see what chance they had of getting a satisfactory reply from the Spartacists on these points.

For some time past Dusseldorf has been a The Press Association's Special Corr prepared out the hardships this would inflict on them owing to there being no sleening accommodation available for them. They afterwards marched in procession to the War Office, and were seen by several hiph officials of the London Command, who explained the position. The men for the most part seemed to appreciate the difficulties of the situation, and the discontent subsided when arrangements were announced for conveying them in lorries to various hostels, where they would be supplied with food and accommodation.

The Secretary of the War Office issued the following statement last night:—"A number of soldiers returning from Victoria to Folkestone from leave to-day were stopped in the course of their jeurney, and ordered back to Victoria, in view of the interruption of cross-Channel service by bad weather. On arrival at Victoria they were told to report themselves again at the end of 24 hours for resumption of the journey. Unfortunately, they were not told at the same time where they could go to find accommodation, nor had the authorities in London who control the hostels been warned of the men's return to London at the time the tesies were sent back. BOARD OF TRADE CONFERENCES.

Yesterday afternoon and evening the Board of Trade was again the centre of great activity. A conference on the railway trouble was proceeding for several hours. A deputation from the railwaymen, headed by Mr. Hudson, waited upon Sir Albert Stanley at 3 p.m., when there was also at the Department a railway clerks' deputation to discuss questions concerning the application of the principles of the agreement arrived at last Tuesday. Another deputation representing stationmasters was received at the Board of Trade earlier.

The conferences at the Board of Trade regarding the Loudon Tube strike were still proceeding at 11.30 last night.

ELECTRICIANS DISSATISFIED WITH LEADERS.

As a result of inquiries in labour circles, the Press Association has good ground for stating that a considerable element in the electrical trades union is greatly dissatisfied with the manner in which it has been led in connection with the London disputes: It is claimed by the members that an overwhelming proportion of the union feel that the policy pursued by the leaders has done harm to loyal trades unionisms.
